

SANFORD SCHOOL

NEW FACULTY AND STAFF PROFILES 2007-08

Jennifer Campbell: Music. A graduate of Wyoming Seminary, a fine independent school in the Lehigh Valley, and Baldwin-Wallace College Conservatory of Music (OH), Jennifer will be teaching general and choral music in grades 4 through 6 and fully participating in the performing arts curricular and extracurricular program. Her experience as a teacher, camp counselor and singer, combined with her involvement with a host of music educators organizations, has prepared Jennifer well for her new responsibilities at Sanford.

Michelle Dresser: Middle School Science. Already familiar with Sanford's program through her work as a long term substitute teacher and as a parent, Michelle joins the Middle School science faculty with wonderful real life experience as a clinical researcher and as a registered nurse. She is a graduate of Duke University.

Kathryn Daum: Upper School Technology. Years of experience in business and in teaching have prepared Kathy Daum well for her new role on the Sanford Upper School faculty. Twenty seven years as a systems analyst and information systems trainer at DuPont and Pennsylvania Blue Shield, preceded by six years of teaching at Mount Pleasant Middle School, formed the core of her experience. In recent years, Kathy has been teaching at Ursuline Academy. She is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

Michelle Frosina: Fourth Grade. A graduate of Clark University (MA) with a B.A. in Philosophy and Government, Mrs. Frosina recently moved to Wilmington with her family from Charlotte, NC. She has six years of experience as an elementary teacher, most recently at Charlotte Preparatory School. She completed her M.A.T. degree at Pfeiffer University (NC) and has pursued a host of other professional opportunities in order to broaden her experience.

Laura Gaylor: School Receptionist. With local customer service experience at Hercules and DuPont, the new "first voice of Sanford" arrives on campus with ideal background in dealing with the many constituent groups of our school. Laura is the mother of two Sanford students.

Christopher Lazartic: Middle School Science. A recent graduate of the University of Delaware, Chris joins the Sanford faculty as the replacement for Mark Bosick in the science classroom and as varsity wrestling coach. He is a graduate of Salesianum School where he earned distinction on the First Team Academic All-State team. At the University of Delaware, he earned honors for outstanding service, academic and athletic achievement.

Brooke Mulhearn: Fourth Grade. After three very successful years in public school teaching, Brooke joins the Sanford Lower School faculty where she will utilize her skills as a scholar and as a teacher. A graduate of the University of Delaware and Wilmington College, Brooke worked for Senator Thomas Carper for almost three years while maintaining an active role in the community as a volunteer and as a coach.

Grace Wingfield: Middle School Math. With teaching experience at the secondary and college levels, Grace brings a wide range of skills to her new role at Sanford. She has been a teacher, coach, tutor and scholar over the years, and now looks forward to making a contribution at the school where her children have been enrolled in recent years. She holds a B.A. and an M.A. from the University of Delaware.
